

Information System Rules of the Nomination Platform

These Information System Rules shall apply to all Registered Participants for access to and use of the Nomination Platform.

Rule 1

General provisions

1. Each Registered Participant must establish and maintain, at its own cost, its own systems (hardware, software and any other system) to exercise its rights and perform its obligations under the Nomination Rules.
2. The Nomination Platform Operator shall have no liability in the event that the Registered Participant's system fails, for any reason, to communicate with the Nomination Platform.

Rule 2

Interfaces with the Nomination Platform

1. The Nomination Platform Operator will give Registered Participants the information (including updates as applicable) reasonably necessary to enable their systems to interface with the Nomination Platform.
2. Each Registered Participant must demonstrate to the reasonable satisfaction of the Nomination Platform Operator its ability to exchange information with the Nomination Platform before being eligible to participate in the Nominations process.
3. In this context, the Nomination Platform Operator shall endeavour to give Registered Participants access to a test platform for the Nomination Platform to test their interfaces.

Rule 3

Security and confidentiality of communications

1. The Nomination Platform Operator may from time to time, where reasonably necessary for the purpose of protecting the security of communications under the Nomination Rules, including those between the Nomination Platform and the Registered Participant's systems, establish communication protocols and standards with which Registered Participants must comply.
2. Registered Participants accept that data sent to the Nomination Platform is binding, and that Registered Participants are fully responsible for those individuals who have access to the Nomination Platform on behalf of the Registered Participants.

Rule 4

Training

Training for the use of the Nomination Platform is available to Registered Participants by contacting ElecLink at www.eleclink.co.uk
